PURPOSE OF ROLE

Registered Nurses use nursing knowledge and judgment to assess health needs, provide care and to advise and support people to manage their health.

They practise independently and in collaboration with other health professionals, perform general nursing functions, delegate to and direct enrolled nurses and healthcare assistants and others. They provide comprehensive assessments to develop, implement and evaluate an integrated plan of health care, and provide interventions that require substantial scientific and professional knowledge, skills and clinical decision making. They do this in a range of settings in partnership with individuals, families, whanau and communities.

Registered nurses may practise in a variety of clinical contexts depending on their educational preparation and practice experience.

They may also use this expertise to manage, teach, evaluate and research nursing practice.

Registered nurses are accountable for ensuring that all the health services they provide are consistent with their education and assessed competence, meet legislative requirements and are supported by appropriate standards.

Some registered nurses will have conditions on their scope of practice, if their qualifications or experience limit them to a specific area of practice.

Mental Health Nursing is a specialised branch of nursing practice that builds on the competencies expected of all nurses who practice in Aotearoa, New Zealand. It is a specialised expression of nursing which focuses on collaborative partnerships and meeting the needs of people with mental health issues, family/whānau and communities. It is an interpersonal process that embodies the concepts of caring and therapeutic relationship within a cultural context. Mental health nursing is holistic and considers the needs and strengths of the individual, family, group and community.

The Mental Health Nurse is a registered nurse who is a graduate of a nursing education programme with a specialisation in mental health nursing and is registered by the Nursing Council of New Zealand to practise in the specialty of mental health. This includes nurses who have completed a hospital based specialist undergraduate programme, or a tertiary education undergraduate programme followed by a postgraduate programme in the specialty of mental health nursing.

The Mental Health Nurse provides comprehensive care which includes health education, health promotion and illness prevention, assessment, diagnosis, intervention, treatment and evaluation in a variety of settings along the continuum of care and across the lifecycle. Within the context of mental health care, the Mental Health Nurse addresses a person's physical health care needs and ensures through direct care provision or referral, consultation and co-ordination of care processes, that care is individualised and integrated in the context of the person's social and cultural context. Mental Health Nurses recognise the need for flexibility, adaptability, responsiveness and sensitivity as they shape their practice to the changing needs of people, family/whānau and communities. Te Ao Maramatanga: The New Zealand College of Mental Health Nurses, 2012.

The Registered Nurse practicing in Mental Health will meet the competency requirements of NCNZ and the Te Ao Maramatanga NZ College of Mental Health Nursing Inc Standards of Practice for Mental Health Nursing in New Zealand 2012 both of which underpin the development of this job description.
