PURPOSE OF ROLE

Registered Midwives use midwifery knowledge and judgment to assess the needs, provide care and educate women and their whanau through pregnancy, labour and birth and the postnatal period in line with Southern District Health Board's standards and philosophy.

Registered Midwives must meet the expected competencies of the Midwifery Council of New Zealand for Registered Midwives including the recertification programme for competency based practising certificates.

They practise independently and in collaboration with other health professionals, perform general midwifery care. They provide comprehensive assessments to develop, implement and evaluate an integrated care plan, and provide interventions that require substantial scientific and professional knowledge, skills and clinical decision making. They do this in a range of settings in partnership with women, families, whanau and communities.

Midwives must practice within the Midwifery Council of New Zealand's scope of practice of a midwife.

They may also use this expertise to manage, teach, evaluate and research midwifery practice.

Registered midwives are accountable for ensuring that all the health services they provide are consistent with their education and assessed competence, meet legislative requirements and are supported by appropriate standards.

Competencies

The following competencies apply to this position. The employee will be assessed against these as part of their annual performance and development review.
